"Read All About It!" Genealogy Newspaper Research Online

Speaker: Kathryn Moore

Birth announcements, marriage announcements, obituaries, court proceedings, town news and much, much more - historical newspapers can be a treasure trove of genealogical information. In this presentation, we will discuss how to use the internet to find, and in many cases, access the newspapers of your ancestor's time and place using both free and subscription based websites.

Kathryn Moore has been doing family history research for over 15 years, focusing on American Research and currently owns a genealogy research company, Generations Bound. She is passionate about doing genealogy and devoted to helping others fall in love with their family history.
